

Are you new to the area?

Are you bored?

Would you like to try something different?

Why not have a go at Amateur Theatre?

Charing Guild of Players, the local Amateur Dramatic group of many years standing, are very keen to kick start the group again after lockdown.

We are meeting up in the Church Barn (next to the Church)

every Monday evening from 7:30pm.

At the moment we are just meeting to read through plays for our entertainment but in the hope that we can eventually cast and perform again next year.

So far, we have read, Crazy Horses (about the 3 Horsemen and 1 Horsewoman of the Apocalypse!) and

The Vicar of Dibley, which was hugely entertaining.

Let your dormant or unfulfilled acting skills loose and come and join us!

If you get the acting bug, we can promise you will experience much fun and merriment!!

We do need backstage folks too so if your expertise lies in creating, building, designing, painting, directing or producing, then come along and get involved.

Help us to get Charing Players back on track.

It'll be worth it!!

Enquiries, please email: cgplayers@gmail.com

Website: www.charingguild.com

Facebook: Charing Guild of Players

Chair: Carolyn Banham – Secretary: Rob Francis